THE STOCKTON PRESIDENTIAL CONVENTION.

Non-Appearance of the Commodore—Speeches of Mesers. Rauch, of Pa., and Wood, of N. Y.—Resolutions, Gra. d Finale, &c., &c., &c. Pursuant to adjournment, the bolters from the Convenion at the Apollo Rooms assembled yesterday at National Hall, in Canal street, at one o'clock P. M. Not over a hundred persons were present when the meeting was called to order by the President, A. S. Livingston, Esq., although the announcement had been made through the morning papers that Commodore Stockton would be preent and address the Convention.

It was announced by the PRESIDENT that a communication would probably be received by the Convention from nodore Stockton in the course of the day, which would be published in the morning papers.

Mr. J. S. Bayard, from the Committee on Resolutions,

Mr. J. 8. Batarap, from the Committee on Resolutions, reported the following preamble and resolutions for the consideration of the meeting:

1. Whereas, the Convention which assembled in this city on the 12th of June having departed from the original purpose for which it was called together, and male its mail action subservient to and dependent upon the will of another organization, distinct and hostile to the American party; and, whereas the entire delegations of New Jersey and Delaware, and party in the course of the majority of said Convention, having left it and invited delegations from other States to unite with them in an independent the property of the views of those Americans who condemand the repeal of the Missouri compromise, who are opposed to the present federal administration, in favor of freedom in Kanasas, and in favor of mortinating candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency who accord with them in principle, both with regard to the great doctrine that Americans related to the foreign control of the americans of the foreign element and fosts to the recognition of the americans of the foreign element and fosts to the recognition of the distinctive principles of the American party. And that we cannot look to them for, or receive at their dication, our candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency, but that those candidates of the American party who acknowledge, in all those for the present of the American should rule American.

is obligations, the uccurring this land in the present corrupt and miscelle administration, which has proved false to the principles which brought it into power: false to the cause of human reedom, to true democracy, and every emotion of patriotism. Resolved, That the present administration, distinguished as its for the rudliess present plant of the American born, and by is preference for foreigners, who swarm in the government offices, deserves the unanimous condemnation of every American who toils for his duily bread.

Resolved, That the encouragement extended by the party in power to the indiscriminate fur-violution of aliens is a grievous wrong to the American producing classes, tending to reduce their wages to the European "ten cont' standard, and place in competition with our own American working man the degraded serf and pauper labore of the Old World.

Resolved, That American labor and interests are entitled to all the protection which is needful to defend them against foreign aggression.

Resolved, That the great interests of foreign and domestic immerce, as well as the preservation of the Union require immediate construction of a railway connecting, across the ontinent, the shores of the Atlantic and Pacific.

Resolved, That freedom of speech in the person of a Senator fithe United States, by a ruthan attack which would disgrace be minions of despotic authority, has been assailed on the pot where liberty and the law should protect it; and that if recemen cannot speak and legislate unless with arms on their ersons, it is time that they should arm in defence of their gibts.

its time that they should arm in defence of their hits. Resolved, That the repeal of the Missouri compromise, perraried for the purpose of continuing in power the present ninistration and its supporters, was uncalled for by the ple, North or South, that it is a breach of the national faith a violation of the national honor, and was designed to an one section of the country against the other; that it is an arression upon freemen and free terrifory, and that it can and will not be recognized as having valid authority; but, notwithstanding the abrogation by law of that comprote, it must and shall be forever considered as solusising, the terrifory consecrated a to free labor must and shall select the terrifory. Resolved, That the efforts of the present administration and party in power to force by outrage and violence, and armed intervention, the institution of slavery upon Kanssa are at variance with the constitution and every principle of free government; and, whether they may temporally succeed or not, the people of the North demand, and all parties at the South who feel bound by the homorable engagements of their predecessors will concede that Kanssa should be free. Resolved, that we have entire confidence in the principles and heroic claracter of Com. to the end of the predecessors will concede the error of the Confidence of resolutions were then unanimously adopted.

Mr. Norrow, of Ohio, said that he found himself report one of the Vice Presidents of this meeting. He ould simply state that he was a great admirer of Com-odore Stockton; his noble qualities, his character, his modore Stockton; his noble qualities, his character, his history, his Revolutionary descent, and all these noble attributes of the gallant Commodore, commended themselves to his regard, but he was a member of the American party; and as their candidate for the Presidency had accepted the nomination, he was resolved, under all circumstances, come weal or come woe, that he would support Milard Fillmore. (Appliance) His object in rising was to ask to have his name withdrawn as one of the Vice Presidents.

The Pressuper said this was a Convention of delegates, and when any question was put those only who were delegates were expected to vote. He hoped that this rule would be regarded by their friends present.

Mr. Ratz, of Penn., proposed that thee hearty cheers be given for their nominoes.

The proposition was heartily responded to, and three cheers were then given for Commodore Stockton and Kenneth Raynor.

A motion was made that an Executive Committee on

A motion was made that an Executive Committee on Correspondence be appointed, which was agreed to.

The Presinest said if there were any delegates here whose names had not appeared in the papers as properly belonging to the Convention, that it would be well for them to report their names to the Secretary before they adjourned, so that they might be published in the papers in full.

A ISENCATE remarked that in most of the papers the entire delegation from Pennsylvania.

The Prosensat—The Hexalo had the names in full.

Mr. RALCH, of Pennsylvania, said that it was a very difficult matter to get up before a meeting for the sake of making a speech. He would like to talk upon the questions before them in a business sort of way, and he would venture to suggest a few practical remarks. He considered that the standard they had raised was invincible and destined to carry everything before it. Everything must have a beginning, and they must remember in the movement they had now commenced that they stood upon the platform of true American principles. (Applause.) He believed that the people of this country were patriotic, and he believed, too, that it was the homest sentiment of every man who loved his country, and who had a common school close, that it was the homest sentiment of every man who loved his country. He was not ready to believe that American hathorally was of that stripe which could be merged by a low jurging politicians into any of the isms which excited any far of the country. He did not a believed, and provide were ready to surrender their organization; at flux distation of mere trading projections. They, the American people were ready to surrender their organization; at flux distation of mere trading projections. They the American people were ready to surrender their organization; at the surrender of the country. (Applause.) He would at thousand times rather the American party should meet with defeat under their present banner than to make themselves "belowed the purpose of putting in power a few annihilous and selfish politicians. The American people were ready to carry on the contest successfully. In Commodore Stockton they had such a man, as he fully believed. If ever a set of une politically degraded themselves in this country, it was the set of men who composed the convention at the Apollo Rooms. Did they went a r

Mr. E. T. Wood, of New York, said that the resolutions Mopied this morning met his most cordul approbation, and he believed that the sentiments they contained would be welcomed by all true Americans, whether at the North, South, East or West. He had been a spectator of the proceedings at the Convention at the Apollo rooms, and he soon discovered that it was no place for an honest man. It was appearent that the Convention was nothing less than a Republican Convention of the most abolition character. The interiest party pieced Commodore Stockton upon the arrangement of the proceedings and the proceedings and the process of the convention of the most abolition character. INFORMAL MESTING.

Loud cries for Duganne, Perrin, Jones and others were made, and an informal meeting was organized by calling A. J. H. Duganne to the chair.

Mr. Duganne to the chair.

Mr. Duganne forced for the consideration of the meeting the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Americans in all sections of the country are opposed to the infamous and corrupt course of the present administration.

Mr. Duganne stated that the are opposed to the infamous and corrupt course of the present administration.

Mr. Duganns stated that this meeting was organized under the advice of some friends, in order that the condemnation of the present policy of the administration might go forth with the proceedings of this Convention as the expression of the public feeling of the American party with reference to the acts of the administration.

The resolution was then adopted unanimously; and there being no further resolutions, and no further speeches, the meeting was then adjourned.

The Free State Troubles in Kansas.

[From the St. Louis Democrat, June 12.]

A passession of the late of the basis of Jeffession City; and reached St. Louis yesterday afternoon, eleroute for the East, puts us in possession of the latest intelligence from the troubled districts.

We give the the information just as we received it. He informs us that on Monday, the 19th instant, six men left Kansas City for the purpose of viewing the Territory and selecting locations, when they were met nine miles from that place by a party of men who inquired whither they were bound. On replying that their object was to locate themselves in the Territory wherever they might find a suitable place to settle, they were then sound upon the goose question." They were then searched, and a revolver taken from one of them, being the only weapon in their possession. They were then advised to return, and were informed that if they went further they would get into trouble, as the fogulators had determined to make an example of all who were coal Stantor met several parties of Missourians, and ordered them to leave. On Sunday they returned to Westport, where, in the afternoon of that day, they were joined by a large band from Lexington and vicinity, amounting in the aggregate to about four hundred. They immediately took up the line of march for the Territory again, swearing vengeance against the free Sate men. They threatened that "they would do the thing up right this time."

A friend of our informant, residing near Topeka, went to Kansas City last week, bought some cattle, and sont them out by two of his neighbors. They had gone but a short distance when they were taken from them. Such outrages were of constant them out by two of his neighbors. They had gone but a short distance while her were taken from them.

Shannon went to Kansas City with the committee, and while he was there a company from Cay county, Mo., crossed the river on their way west, mounted and equipped for war.

The committee have been pushing their investigation very quietly, but at the same time thoroughly. They go from this to Detroit where they will remain several days. It is said that the testimony before them clearly proves that only eight hundred and fifteen of those whose names were on the census voted at the legislative election on the 30th of March, 1855, and that not over eleven hundred of those who voted made any pretensions to re-

Governor Recder before the Boston Brokers' Board.

From the Boston Traveller, June 16.]

By special invitation, over a hundred of the weathlest and most influential of our merchants and other citizens assembled to day at the rooms occupied by the Brokers' Board, in Union Building, for the purpose of hearing the presentation of the Kansas difficulty and its remedy by Gov. Reeder. It is probable that a long time has elapsed since so many distanciabled, weathly and influential men of Boston were convened in such a meeting.

The meeting was called to order by Hon. Mr. Walley, of Boabury, wise, with a brief preface, introduced Gov. Beeder to the furtherno.

Gov. Reeder Saud the probability was that genilemen were posted up, but from his experience lie believed those engressed in business were too agt to look upon the troobles in Kansas as not being near them, and as being more transitory outbreaks. Here they were mistaken, for the whole was but the steady and persistent effort of men acting through others, with the view, not of subjugating Kansas, but territory sufficient to constitute a dozen States, and giving it up to slavery. If Kansas became a slave State, but territory beyond it would be more accessible to slavery and less so to freemen; while, if we made it a free State, all the territory next to the Pacific must be eventually preserved by freemenaresion of country 1,500 miles wide, the fate of which must depend on the fate of Kansas. California was a free State, but determined efforts were being made to constitute the southern part of it a slave State. If we lose Kansas and the rest of the territory westward to the Rocky Mountains, we will have New Mexico compilety isolated by slave States, with no hope of constituting anything but three or four slavery will be the results which would follow, when slavery thus held the re

Supreme Court—In Chambers.

Before How. Judge Clerke.

JUNE 17.—A Mornon Case of Halesa Corpus.—An Englishman, named James Jarvis, made application for a wid of habese for three of his children, under the following circumstances:—He is a native of Herefordsbire, England, his wife left home with the three children, two girls, aged twelve and eight, and a boy five years old; the applicant learning that his spouse was about to settle among the Mornons at Sait Lake, instantly set out in pursuit of her, and arrived in New York in time to seek the aid of the law in his desire for the restoration of his children. The applicant, who is a respectable looking man, is a farmer. It is said that the religious community to which he belong furnished him with money to pursue his fugitive wife, and that the government gave him a free passage to this country. The case was adjourned to Thursday next, the children in the meantime to remain under the care of the Sheriff. The mother was unwilling to part with them, and cling to them, but they were separated.

The West Point Examination.

END OF THE TRIM—THE GRADUATING CLASS—THE PONTOON BRIGG—CLOSING EXAMCHES—PINS WORKS, STC.

GUS WEST FOINT CORRESONDENCS.

WEST POINT QUIT PURE 17, 1856.

The annual examination of this institution was brought to a close yesterday, and forty-eight of its former inmates have been freed from the restraints of academic life. At ter four years of the strictest discipline, it is no wonder if, in the exuberance of their feelings, they do not at first make as rational and as moderate a use of their nevty acquired liberties as sober old disciplinarians of sixty might desire. This morning the whole guaduating class took breakfast at Correson's Hotel, and it was refreshing to see the unrestrained delight which beamed on every face, 'and the elastic, springy,' independent sey with which they marched about, as if the world had no longer any cares for them. It is to be feared, however, that before night that step will not be quite so steady or so regular as it was in the ranks, and that something of a change will come over the spirit of their dreams. But as I have said, it is no wonder if they make the most extensive use of their liberties at this particular time, and if they should not realize its full value until they are somewhat longer in possession of it. They are, it must be remembered, cadets no more—they are officers in the United States army or at least will be in a few short days—and to the appling young soldier that is the first stop in the bright carer which he believes to be before him. They have left West Point perhaps forever, where they have been associated for years, and have now the whole world before ficent which he believes to be before him. They have left west that state will be to case to the whole world before ficent which he believes to be before him. They have left west than the whole world before ficent which he believes to be before him. They have left west than the whole world before ficent which he believes to be before him. They have left west than the whole world bef which he believes to be before him. They have left West Peint perhaps forever, where they have been associated for years, and have now the whole world before them. The soldier's life is one of changes; but amid them all they will not cease to remember the old academic halls, nor the years that marched in solemn processon along; and their slow, but still rapid ascent to the positions they now occupy, which is itself but thebeginning of a new career on another and more extended field of action. They have entered the service of their country, and wherever they may be stationed, they will never forget the true dignity of their position and their characters as soldiers of the republic.

The close of the examination yesterday differed in no material respect from those of former years. There was the usual crowd of spectators who are always attracted to West Point on such occasions, and the exercises were the same as those of last year. In the evening the cadest and their friends assembled in the chapel to witness the distribution of diplomas, and to hear the address which was delivered by Professor Smith. The following are the names of the graduates, all of whom are now cutified to the commission of Brevet Lieutenart in the army—resorts. Besides, the academy is always open to visiters, and those who come to West Point seldom leave before seeing all that is worth seeing in and about it. The cadets are still there, and go through nearly the same exercises and drills which have taken place during the examination week.
